RHIO Picks a Technology Partner

(March 24, 2005) MedVirginia, an emerging regional health information network serving the greater Richmond, Va., region, has selected its underlying data exchange technology. The RHIO will use the Web-based networking platform of Wellogic Inc., Cambridge, Mass. Contract terms were not disclosed.

Bon Secours Richmond Health System is the initial sponsor and data supplier for MedVirginia. The RHIO expects initial data exchanges to include medication histories, allergies and laboratory reports.

Additional information on the RHIO and the technology it will use is available at www.medvirginia.com and www.wellogic.com.
